

Lasan Computer Class

By Sophia Tran, 5th Grade

This was my first year at La San, and I had a lot of fun in computer class. There were many things I learned how to do that were cool, but some things were not as interesting to me.

Some of the new things I learned were how to photo edit on the editing program, GIMP. There were a number of things to do on it like choose a background or a pattern. I also learned how to layer and scale images, which was kind of cool. The best thing about GIMP was the variety of tools. There were many tools to use like the free-select tool. I also learned how to play some fun games like Icy Tower and Happyland. Once I made a high score on Icy Tower, even though I just learned how to play!

Even though there many fun activities to do on the computers, there were also many problems. Most of the computers were really slow, and some had no internet. Some didn't even work! That annoyed me a lot.

I really wish that I could go to Lasan again next year so I can go to computer class. I learned a lot, and I had a great time in Lasan computer class.
